PROBLEM

These days if there is an urgent need for a plumber & mechanic then we are unable to find them easily and at the same time they are also jobless. Find a solution that can fulfil the needs of both.

SOLUTION

To provide an online platform to both the seeker and workers to solve the above stated problem. As we are aware of the fact that being online can be a boon to us, to digitally connect according to the consumer's choice and convenience. It also increases the availability of skilled workers and can be fulfilled by the physical freelancing platform which will also help in increasing the job options (part-time, full-time). This type of platform will act as an intermediate between the service provider and service seeker.

MAIN IDEA

To develop an online platform like freelancing sites, to provide physical jobs instead of a digital work where the service seeker can post the kind of work they want. Similarly, the workers (service providers) can register themselves, make their profile and mention their skills, work experience in the field they are master.

In this way we can connect the work-seeker and the workers in a digital way by providing them a large user based platform to fulfil their needs.
